

The Linthouse

The Scottish Maritime Museum in Irvine is housed within the vast, glass-roofed Victorian Linthouse. The building used to be the Engine Shop of Alexander Stephen and Sons shipyard in Govan before being salvaged and relocated to Irvine in 1991.